46th Annual Conference 2002

"Negotiating the Changing Landscape"

October 23-26, 2002
at

The Morris J. Wosk Centre for Dialogue
Vancouver, BC, Canada

Conference 2002 will explore the current economic, political and social changes that are sweeping our provincial landscape and re-shaping how our communities, cultural institutions and workplaces must adapt to continue to preserve and promote our heritage values in the Province's New Era.

CONFERENCE 2003

Reno, Nevada

A Personal Invitation from the Chair

As Chair for the annual conference, it is my privilege to invite you to attend. Circle October 23-26, 2002 now and plan on participating in a watershed event that may influence how you and your museum, gallery or historic site can negotiate and flourish during times of rapid and extreme change.

Recent world events have dramatically demonstrated how fragile and tentative our time is. From that has been a swing towards "the important things in life". Our families first and foremost of course, however contributing to community and others must be a close second. This conference provides an opportunity to gain new insights and tools to help with essential areas of your vocation and volunteer life.

The Morris J. Wosk Centre for Dialogue in Vancouver offers delegates an elegant and conducive venue to learn and exchange views with community leaders, experts in the field and your work associates and friends. Your Program Committee will be pulling together the details for Conference 2002 to help you with "Negotiating the Changing Landscape" so stay tuned to the BCMA web site for updates.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely,

Wayne Carter, Chair,
Program Committee

CONFERENCE 2003

Reno, Nevada

Bill Richardson

Bill Richardson was born in Winnipeg on August 11, 1955. He received his B.A. from the University of Winnipeg in 1976. After spending a year in Montpellier, he moved to Vancouver where he completed a Master of Library Sciences. He then worked as children's librarian, before turning to writing and broadcasting. In 1998, Bill received a Honorary Doctor of Laws, from the University of Winnipeg.

Bill is well-known to CBC Radio audiences as a host on both Radio One and Radio Two. He's also made many freelance contributions to both network and regional shows including three documentaries for Ideas.

In 1992, Bill hosted a summer replacement show for Gabereau on Radio One, called Crosswords; that programme continued for four summers. In 1995, Bill came to Radio Two as the guest host of the classical music request show, RSVP, and was chosen as the show's new permanent host when it moved to Vancouver in January, 1996. The show was re-named As You Like It, to reflect Bill's interest in the music and letters of his audience.

In 1997, Bill was given Radio One's weekday afternoon timeslot, formerly occupied by Vicki Gabereau, and he became the host of a new programme, Richardson's Roundup. The Roundup is a mix of replays of some of the best CBC Radio excerpts from other programmes on Radio One and Radio Two, along with letters, music requests and other contributions from the listening audience. Bill 'wrangles the Roundup' with the skill, verve and humour one would expect from this multi-talented man.

In addition to his popularity as a broadcaster, Bill is a well-known columnist, writer and humourist. Bill has written ten books, including The Bachelor Brothers Bed and Breakfast which won the Stephen Leacock Medal for Humour in 1994 and was later serialized for broadcast on CBC Radio's Between the Covers.

Bill makes frequent public appearances reading poetry, narrating musical works, giving keynote speeches and signing books. In his spare time he reads, and tries to remember to drink a litre of water a day.
